Reference: Gladder Ladders, Guard Rails and Safety Access Hatches

Dear Ron;

Just thought I would drop you a note on how things are going with our Gladder Products since purchase. The ladder and safety hatches are just great, all of our men like the system much better then the exterior scaffold stair or ladders on the outside of the scaffolding that we used to use all the time.

Our set up crew finds Gladder Products much easier to handle and we don't need a forklift to set up these stairs. As for the safety rails I think they are great they all come back from the job and are easy to handle and no one accuses us of using their two x fours for our guard rails any more.

Short note of interest you might like, we have just recently had four of our job sites inspected by the Ministry of Labour three of the jobs were using Gladder Products and one was using standard ladders for access and wood two x fours for guard rails. The Ministry Inspector was highly impressed with the gladder system and how it all worked a clean bill of health on the fourth job. We got wrote up by the Ministry of Labour on the conventional ladder job for unsafe access. Looks like we will be talking soon. Thanks Again.

Sincerely,
